STRATEGIC PROCUREMENT MANAGEMENT

OCTOBER 22 - 25, 2024

STRATEGIC PROCUREMENT MANAGEMENT

Organisations are becoming increasingly complex and global, thus requiring specialisation in all organisational functions. In the same spirit, the scope and expectations of the procurement function in organisations have changed dramatically over the last decade.

The Strategic Procurement Management programme seeks to familiarise the participants to align procurement unit functions with organisational priorities to develop integrated purchasing strategies and operations. In addition, the programme seeks to expose the challenges and decision frameworks in managing the procurement process, as well as interaction with internal and external stakeholders, efficiently and effectively. In this way, the programme is focused on understanding the larger picture of the organisation and procurement's role in decision-making at the middle to senior management level.

During the programme, participants will be exposed to a spectrum of concepts, skills, and techniques essential for alleviating the role of procurement leaders to achieve desired results.

PROGRAMME COVERAGE

This programme will cover techniques on how to optimise sourcing and understanding how procurement strategy contributes to organisational competitiveness. The programme's topics are:

- Integration of organisational and procurement strategies
- Inter and Intra organisational structure of procurement unit
- Supplier selection and development
- Strategic purchasing and supplier integration
- Managing large one-time procurement projects
- International procurements
- Procurement performance management
- Ethical implications in procurement
